The park, the office building of the Lyon-Gray Lumber company and an empty warehouse belonging to the Southland Cotton Oil company burned yesterday following a baseball game, at an estimated loss of $20,000.

The conflagration started in the stands at the park soon after an amateur game ended. Fire department officials said the blaze probably started from a discarded cigarette or cigar. # AGED MINISTER HEARD IN READING BY METHODIST S. S.

The following article entitled "Temple of Christianity" was read at the general assembly of the First Methodist Sunday school Sunday by Rev. G. W. Kincheloe:

Temple of Christianity. Temple of Christianity.
Twenty-two years ago I entered the Temple called Christianity. I entered at the portico called Genesis, walked down through the art gallery of the Old Testament on whose walls hung the photographs of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses and Daniel. I entered the music room of the Psalms, where the Spirit swept the keyboard of Nature from the dirge-like wall of the prophet Jeremiah to the grand impassioned strain of Isaiah until every reed and pipe in God's great organ of nature seemed to respond to the tuneful harp of David, the sweet singer of Israel.

I wighted the consequences:

singer of Israel.

I visited the conservatory of Sharon where the lilies of the valleys, sweet scented spices filled and perfumed my life and into the observatory rooms of the prophets where I beheld telescopes of various sizes, some pointing to far-off events, but all concentrated upon the Bright and Morning Star that should arise over Judea's moonlit hills for our salvation. hills for our salvation.

I entered the Holy of Holies where I got a vision of His Majesty from the standpoint of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, and in the workshop of the Acts of the Apostles I viewed the foundation of the Infant Church. I visited the correspondence from where Matthe Infant Church. I visited the correspondence room where Matthem, Mark, Luke, John, Peter, Paul and Jude were penning their epistles, and on entering the Throne Room of Revelation, I beheld the King in all his glory, seated upon his throne and I cried: All hall the power of Jesus name, let angels prostrate fall, bring forth the royal diadem and crown Him Lord of all.

The plumbing trade has improved a gerat deal in the last few years. It has taken short cuts to efficiency and these short cuts have made plumbing what it is today. A few years ago, plumbing was a great mystery, known only to the elect, and good plumbers were scarce. Also, charges were high, for in those days plumbing was like a Chinese puzzle to all save the experts.

High repair bills came from the complex nature of the work rather than from unreasonable profits. ut it was then that the old story started about the plumber whose bill was $55—and who, when asked how he arrived at the charge, repiled: "Five dollars for the work and $50 for knowing how.'

Plumbers still charge for knowng how, and it is a legitimate charge. Lawyers and doctors harge for knowing how. All skilled labor has its "know how" charge. But now the plumber charges much less for the mystery part, and the reason is that plumbing has been simplified. Plumbing now has an axiom by which its people work, an axiom governing all good installation. It is: "A straight line is the shortest distance between two points." The old days of complex plumbing are gone. Now it is known that the simplest installations work best. Plumbing is open. Pipes are exposed.

You have your own choice of the large fixtures to be in your house. But frequently the pipes and drains are supplied by the plumber himself and there is where you must watch him. The house drain, the inside sewer pipe, for example, should be of heavy cast iron. It must not break. See that you get it. A broken house drain can befoul the whole house.

Drains and fixtures must be trappart, and the reason is that plumb-

Drains and fixtures must be trapped, of course, to keep back-gas from arising. The simplest trap is the familiar S form. In this trap water collects in the lowest part, forming a seal through which gas cannot come.

A direct connection should never be made to the water supply line for water closets. A tank is to be used, preferably a low tank because they are quieter than high tanks.

Grain and Provisions CRICAGO. May 6.—(AP)—Confronted by Liverpool quotations much lower than expected, all deliveries of wheat here underwent a sharp setback today to below any level heretofore touched this season. Advices were at hand that Canada and Argentina were pressing heavily to sell wheat abroad.
